For the occasion the spacious home was decorated very artistically in the space of th was decorated very artistically nink and white, carnations and sminink and white, carnations and smi-lax, being used in profusion and lighted by candle light. In the library, Mesdames Richard C. Hocker and Alfred L. Pence served tea and black cake. The lovely hostess and bride, who received the guests, were beau-tiful gowned in pink evening dresses and the bride carried a corsage bou-quet of sweet peas and roses. Sweet strains of music were dispersed from the Victrola during the entire afternoon. The dining room, where an elaborate luncheon was partaken of was a thing of beauty. The centerpiece of the large dining table was pink roses. Mrs. J. S. Rice very gracefully presided at the coffee urn. and Mrs. Sanford M. Allen, of Millersburg, at the salad bowl.
